Basis of calculation and assumption made in calculating the returns

The performance figures are a comparison of the growth/decline in NAV for the stipulated period, taking into account all the distributions payable (if any) during the stipulated period.

An illustration of the above would be as follows:

Capital Return = NAV per Unit End / NAV per Unit Beginning – 1

Income Return = Income Distribution per Unit / NAV per Unit Ex-Distribution

Total Return = Capital Return x Income Return - 1

Class A- MYR

Capital Return = {NAV per Unit @ 31.12.2018 ÷ NAV per Unit @ 30.06.2018 −1} x 100

= {1.4158 ÷ 1.5592 – 1} x 100

= -9.1970%

Income Return = {Income Distribution per Unit ÷ NAV per Unit Ex-Distribution} x 100

= Nil

Total Return = $[\{(1+Capital Return) \times (1+Income Return)\} - 1] \times 100$

 $= [\{(1-9.1970\%) \times (1+0\%)\} - 1] \times 100$

= -9.1970%

Analysis of Fund Performance

The Fund's underperformance was because of negative stock selection, though this was partially mitigated by positive allocation.

The portfolio's underweight to the US market, which carries a large weighting in the index, dampened performance. In particular, the Fund was hurt by the energy-related holdings there, though the impact was partially cushioned by the lower exposure to the overall energy sector. Oilfield services provider Schlumberger, oil producer EOG Resources and Tenaris, which produces steel pipes for the energy industry, all declined with the weakening oil price. We took advantage of the share-price weakness to top up Schlumberger. The Fund's exposure to South Korea also proved costly, as the market declined amid simmering trade war concerns. Stock selection there weighed on performance as well, with cosmetics giant AmorePacific Group struggling with diminishing competitive advantage in its domestic market and intensifying competition in China. We have since exited the stock. Elsewhere, Japanese medical equipment supplier Sysmex slipped after it reported sluggish sales due to slowing fundamentals and one-off issues. We believe the quality of the business remains intact, and growing healthcare needs will result in rising demand for medical diagnostics.

On the other hand, the overweight to Indonesia, Switzerland and Hong Kong, as well as our stock picks there, proved beneficial. Falling oil prices as well as the central bank's rate hikes to manage a widening current account deficit supported the Indonesian market. In addition to the broad advance, Ace Hardware Indonesia reported solid same-store-sales growth and exceeded its forecast of new store openings. Cement firm Indocement similarly climbed on robust sales. Hong Kong-listed Jardine Matheson also benefited from the Indonesian rally, as its holding Astra International rebounded. Its peer Swire Pacific was lifted by improved first-half earnings as well. In Switzerland, drugmakers Novartis and Roche rose on healthy earnings amid the wider market advance. We pared Novartis to take some profits, though it remains a large core holding.
