FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

- US equities staged a powerful rebound in April 2026, with major indices like the S&P 500 gaining over 10% to hit new record highs, reversing March's risk-off sentiment. The rally was driven by strong AI-related earnings, tech-heavy growth stocks, and a surge in small-cap performance, despite ongoing geopolitical tension.
- Regional equities mostly rallied in April, led by South Korea's KOSPI (+30.6%) on strong AI chip demand and upbeat U.S. tech performance. Taiwan's TAIEX also gained 22.7%, supported by AI infrastructure optimism and regulatory easing, with gains led by energy minerals, health technology, and commercial services.
- The Straits Times Index (STI) experienced a volatile April 2026, ultimately closing the month down approximately 2% on a total return basis. While the index struggled with geopolitical headwinds and rising energy costs, a late-month rally driven by strong banking earnings helped recover some lost ground.
- The FBM KLCI rose 1.9% m-o-m to 1,722.02 in April, rebounding after two months of decline. Gains accelerated in the second half, supported by resilient 1Q2026 GDP growth of 5.3% y-o-y (4Q2025: 6.3%), reflecting solid fundamentals despite external pressures. Most Bursa indices closed higher, led by technology (+22.9%), construction (+11.6%), and property (+10.4%), while finance (-0.7%) and plantation (-0.5%) lagged.
- The FBMKLCI outlook remains constructive, supported by RMK-13, NETR, and NIMP, which are set to drive investments in data centres and AI infrastructure. Combined with supportive policies, competitive positioning, and an accommodative rate environment, Malaysia remains attractive for both tactical and strategic overweight positioning.
