FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

- The FBMKLCI Index ended the month of November lower at 1,513.98 points, declined by -3.09% (-48.33 points) from 1,562.31 points a month earlier. The broader FBM Emas Shariah Index dropped by -3.68% (-462.97 points) to 12,128.62 points from the previous month's close of 12,591.59 points as the new COVID-19 variant, the Omicron, sparked renewed concerns globally.
- Malaysian market has been one of the worst-performing markets in the world in 2021 year-to-date due to the lockdown in 3Q2021 and shares price correction in the glove sectors.
- As we advance, the performance of Bursa Malaysia will be highly influenced by external factors, especially the direction of monetary policy in the US. At the same time, the market sentiment will also be affected by the emergence of the new variant of Covid-19 that could further undermine the economic recovery.
- We are cautiously optimistic about the performance Malaysian Equity market. We continue to advocate buying on weakness, especially in mid-to-large cap space, to ride on the improving economic activities and dividend yield stocks that could generate sustainable income to the overall portfolio.
