FUND MANAGER’S COMMENTARY

- In January, the US stock market hit a new all-time high. The Dow Jones Industrial Average rose by 1.22%, ending at 38,150.30, while the Nasdaq Index jumped by 1.02% to close at 15,164.01. On the home front, the FBM KLCI, Malaysia’s local benchmark, experienced a sharp increase of 4.01%, closing at 1,512.98. Simultaneously, the FBM Emas Shariah Index (FBMS Index) rose by 2.63%, ending at 11,278.09.
- The primary risk to the equity market this year is the escalating geopolitical tension in the Middle East. The conflict in Gaza has the potential to intensify and spill over into neighboring countries such as Yemen, Jordan, Egypt, and Iran. The 2024 US presidential election, slated for November 5, is set to be the highlight of the year. It’s highly probable that we’ll witness another showdown between Joe Biden and Donald Trump, with Trump currently being the favored candidate. While their policies are not vastly different, Trump’s more vocal approach tends to have a larger impact on market sentiment, particularly in the short term.
- The primary risk to the equity market this year is the escalating geopolitical tension in the Middle East. The conflict in Gaza has the potential to intensify and spill over into neighboring countries such as Yemen, Jordan, Egypt, and Iran.
