FUND MANAGER'S COMMENTARY

- In March 2025, escalating geopolitical tensions and the implementation of new tariffs significantly impacted global financial markets. The United States imposed a 25% tariff on imports from Canada and Mexico, and increased tariffs on Chinese goods from 10% to 20%, leading to immediate retaliatory measures from these countries. Investors grew increasingly concerned about the potential for stagflation—a combination of rising inflation and slowing economic growth—as central banks grappled with appropriate policy responses. The heightened uncertainty surrounding international trade policies contributed to a cautious investment climate and dampened economic growth projections worldwide.
- In Malaysia, the local benchmark, the FBM KLCI, increased by 3.88% in March, closing at 1,513.65 points. However, the FBM Emas Shariah Index (FBMS Index) recorded a decline of 2.52%, ending the month at 11,348.04 points.
- In the commodity markets, crude oil prices saw marginal fluctuations. Brent crude rose by 2.1%, closing at USD74.74 per barrel end March (USD73.18/barrel end February), while WTI crude settled at USD 71.48 per barrel end March (USD69.76/barrel end February). Global economic uncertainty, particularly in major economies, has significantly impact oil demand and expectations about future supply and demand.
- Headline inflation eased to 1.5% year-on-year (YoY) in February, while core inflation edged up to 1.9% YoY, compared to 1.8% in January. The modest decrease was attributed to slower rises in transport costs, which fell by 0.7% YoY due to decreased diesel prices, as well as a decrease in the prices of Housing, Water, Electricity, Gas, and Other Fuels, which dropped by 2.3% YoY.
